

General guidance and information

Guidance and information relating to the design and use of traffic signs, information for the public and links to other websites. Includes guidance on signing to tourist destinations in England.

Prevention of bridge strikes: Good practice guides

These guides intended to raise the awareness of staff involved in route risk assessment and schedules for passenger vehicles to the risks and consequences of bridge strikes, and to give guidance so that bridge strikes may be prevented.

Estimating the cost of conversion of road traffic signs to metric units

This report provides a broad indication of the costs of converting speed and distance measurements on traffic signs to metric units, including assumptions on which costs were based and items not taken into account.

Published:
23 February 2006

New road signs and markings leaflet

All road users need to be aware of changes to the Traffic Signs Regulations 1 that came into effect on 31 January 2003. The changes introduce new regulatory signs, new road markings and modify the legal significance of some existing ones.

Published:
09 July 2003
Last update:
05 November 2004

For related documents, pages and internet links, see the column on the right.