Dear

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION ACT 2000

I refer to your email of 10th February 2009 concerning Click Travel Limited of Skelmersdale.

When a Public Service Vehicle (PSV) is involved in an accident there is no requirement (legal or otherwise) for an MOT test to be performed on the vehicle before it can go back on the road. However, item 6 in the "Requirements of the Licence Holder" section, which forms part of all PSV licences states "The holder of the licence shall report to the Secretary of State any failure or damage to a vehicle owned by the holder, which is calculated to affect the safety of its occupants or persons using the road".

If a prohibition had been issued to a vehicle for a mechanical or roadworthiness issue, in those instances the vehicle would need to undergo either a full or partial test to have the prohibition removed, thereby allowing it back on the road. There is no record of  attracting a prohibition in the last five year period which I have searched.
